CASE NO. 10-CV-872-IEG (POR)

ORDER GRANTING DEFENDANTS' MOTION FOR SUMMARY JUDGMENT

[Doc. No. 21]

22 Plaintiff Mir Massoud Kashani initiated this action against Defendants Eric H. Holder, Jr., 23 Janet Napolitano, Alejandro Mayorkas, Paul M. Pierre, United States Department of Homeland 24 Security, and United States Citizenship and Immigration Services ("Defendants") to challenge the 25 denial of his naturalization application. Plaintiff requests this Court review the denial of his 26 application de novo under 8 U.S.C. § 1421(c).

27 Presently before the Court is Defendants' motion for summary judgment. (Doc. No. 21.) 28 Plaintiff filed an opposition, and Defendants filed a reply. Defendants' motion is suitable for

1 disposition without oral argument pursuant to Local Civil Rule 7.1(d)(1).¹ For the reasons stated
 2 herein, the Court GRANTS the motion.

3 BACKGROUND

4 Plaintiff is a permanent resident of the United States. On August 28, 2007, Plaintiff filed
 5 an N-400 application for naturalization. On November 18, 2009, Defendant United States
 6 Citizenship and Immigration Services (“USCIS”) denied Plaintiff’s application on the ground that 7 he was unable to demonstrate that he was a person of good moral character as required by 8 U.S.C.
 8 § 1427, citing several arrests that occurred during the three previous years. Plaintiff timely 9 appealed the decision and received a new interview on March 16, 2010. On April 20, 2010, the 10 USCIS issued a final determination denying naturalization.

11 On April 26, 2010, Plaintiff filed his petition requesting this Court review de novo the final 12 denial of his naturalization application under 8 U.S.C. § 1421(c). Plaintiff requests the Court grant 13 his application and administer an oath of citizenship. Plaintiff contends he has met all the 14 eligibility requirements for naturalization: he has met the residence requirements, is of good moral 15 character, and has passed the naturalization interview tests.

16 On June 28, 2010, Defendants filed this motion for summary judgment, arguing Plaintiff’s 17 criminal history precludes the Court from granting the relief he seeks.

18 DISCUSSION

19 I. Legal Standard

20 Summary judgment is proper where the pleadings and materials demonstrate “there is no 21 genuine issue as to any material fact and . . . the movant is entitled to judgment as a matter of law.”
 22 Fed. R. Civ. P. 56(c)(2); Celotex Corp. v. Catrett, 477 U.S. 317, 322 (1986). A dispute is genuine 23 “if the evidence is such that a reasonable jury could return a verdict for the nonmoving party.” Id.

24 The moving party bears “the initial responsibility of informing the district court of the basis 25 for its motion.” Celotex, 477 U.S. at 323. To satisfy this burden, the movant must demonstrate 26

27 ¹Plaintiff is currently incarcerated at the Vista Detention Facility. (Doc. No. 23.) (Mot. for 28 Summ. J., Ex. C.)

1 that no genuine issue of material fact exists for trial. Id. at 322. Where the moving party does not 2 have the ultimate burden of persuasion at trial, it may carry its initial burden of production in one 3 of two ways: “The moving party may produce evidence negating an essential element of the 4 nonmoving party's case, or, after suitable discovery, the moving party may show that the 5 nonmoving party does not have enough evidence of an essential element of its claim or defense to 6 carry its ultimate burden of persuasion at trial.” Nissan Fire & Marine Ins. Co., v. Fritz Cos., 210 7 F.3d 1099, 1106 (9th Cir. 2000).

8 If the moving party carries its initial burden, the nonmovant must then show that there are 9 genuine factual issues which can only be resolved by the trier of fact. Reese v. Jefferson Sch. Dist.
 10 No. 14J, 208 F.3d 736, 738 (9th Cir. 2000). The nonmoving party may not rely on the pleadings 11 alone, but must present specific facts creating a genuine issue of material fact through affidavits, 12 depositions, or answers to interrogatories. Fed R. Civ. P. 56(e); Celotex, 477 U.S. at 324. The 13 court must review the record as a whole and draw all reasonable inferences in favor of the 14 nonmoving party. Hernandez v. Spacelabs Med. Inc., 343 F.3d 1107, 1112 (9th Cir. 2003).
 15 However, unsupported conjecture or conclusory statements are insufficient to defeat summary 16 judgment. Id.; Surrell v. Cal. Water Serv. Co., 518 F.3d 1097, 1103 (9th Cir. 2008).

17 II. Analysis

18 Pursuant to 8 U.S.C. § 1421(c), this Court has jurisdiction to review de novo a denial of a 19 naturalization application. 8 U.S.C. §§ 1421(c). According to the statute, the Court “shall make 20 its own findings of fact and conclusions of law and shall, at the request of the petitioner, conduct a 21 hearing de novo on the application.” Id.

22 Title 8 U.S.C. § 1427 sets forth a number of requirements that a naturalization applicant 23 must meet. The only requirement at issue in this case is the requirement that an applicant, “during 24 the five years immediately preceding the date of filing his application[,] . . . has been and still is a 25 person of good moral character, attached to the principles of the Constitution of the United States, 26 and well disposed to the good order and happiness of the United States.” 8 U.S.C. § 1427(a)(3).
 27 The regulations makes clear that the applicant for naturalization bears the burden of demonstrating 28

1 good moral character during the statutory period, which includes the period between the 2 examination and the administration of the oath of allegiance. 8 C.F.R. § 316.10(a)(1).

3 Title 8 U.S.C. § 1101(f) sets forth a list of characteristics that, if present in a naturalization
4 applicant, preclude a finding of good moral character. In particular, this provision states: “No 5 person shall be regarded as, or found to be, a person of good moral character who, during the 6 period for which good moral character is required to be established, is, or was . . . a member of one 7 or more of the classes of persons . . . described in . . . subparagraphs (A) and (B) of section 8 1182(a)(2) of this title . . .” Id. § 1101(f)(3). The class of persons set forth in subparagraph (A) 9 of section 1182(a)(2) includes “any alien convicted of, or who admits having committed, or who 10 admits committing acts which constitute the essential elements of . . . a crime involving moral 11 turpitude.” 8 U.S.C. § 1182(a)(2)(A)(i)(I).

12 At issue in this motion is whether the relief Plaintiff seeks is foreclosed as a matter of law 13 due to two events which took place after the denial of his application in November 2009: (1) a 14 May 14, 2010 felony grand theft conviction, and (2) a October 27, 2009 guilty plea for burglary.
15 Defendant argues these convictions render Plaintiff statutorily ineligible to naturalize, and 16 therefore summary judgment is appropriate. In addition, Defendants argue Plaintiff is ineligible 17 to naturalize because he is currently incarcerated, and will be on probation (or in prison) for at 18 least three more years.

19 As an initial matter, Plaintiff argues the Court cannot consider any convictions which 20 occurred after the denial of his application. Plaintiff focuses primarily on whether the USCIS 21 incorrectly based its decision on certain arrests occurring in the three years before the denial of his 22 application. The Court’s review, however, is de novo. 8 U.S.C. §§ 1421(c). The regulations 23 expressly state that the applicant for naturalization bears the burden of demonstrating good moral 24 character during the statutory period, which includes the period between the examination and the 25 administration of the oath of allegiance. 8 C.F.R. § 316.10(a)(1); see, e.g., U.S. v. Hovsepian 422 26 F.3d 883, 886 (9th Cir. 2005) (holding applicants were required to demonstrate good moral 27 character during the five years before they filed their applications through the date of the most 28

1 recent hearing, a period of about 12 years); Santamaria-Ames v. I.N.S., 104 F.3d 1127, 1132 (9th
 2 Cir. 1996) (holding the statutory period during which the applicant must prove good moral 3 character extends “to the present”). Thus, the Court must determine whether Plaintiff has 4 demonstrated good moral character during the five years preceding his application up until the 5 present. See 8 U.S.C. §§ 1427(a); 8 C.F.R. § 316(10)(a)(1).² This includes the time period after 6 the denial of his application.

7 As discussed before, 8 U.S.C. § 1182(a)(2)(A)(i)(I) provides that a conviction for a crime 8 of moral turpitude creates a statutory bar to naturalization. The Ninth Circuit has determined that 9 grand theft is a crime involving moral turpitude. Garcia-Lopez v. Ashcroft, 334 F.3d 840, 844 (9th 10 Cir. 2003) (citing Rashtabadi v. INS, 23 F.3d 1563, 1568 (9th Cir. 1994)). Here, it is undisputed 11 that on May 12, 2010, six months after Plaintiff’s application was denied, Plaintiff was convicted 12 by a jury of felony grand theft in violation of California Penal Code § 487. (Mot. for Summ. J., 13 Ex. B.) The Superior Court sentenced Plaintiff to 120 days in county jail, three years probation, 14 and restitution.³ Id.

15 Plaintiff argues that because the conviction is on appeal, it is not final. However, as 16 Defendant argues, the fact that Plaintiff’s conviction is on appeal does not prevent that conviction 17 from barring naturalization. Title 8 U.S.C. § 1101(a)(48) defines the term “conviction” as “a 18 formal judgment of guilt of the alien entered by a court or, if adjudication of guilt has been 19 withheld, where— (i) a judge or jury has found the alien guilty . . . and (ii) the judge has ordered 20 some form of punishment, penalty, or restraint on the alien’s liberty to be imposed.” 8 U.S.C. § 21 1101(a)(48). It is undisputed that a jury found Plaintiff guilty of grand theft and he was sentenced 22

 24 ²Because the Court concludes that a finding of good moral character is precluded by events 25 occurring after the denial of Plaintiff’s application, the Court need not address the issue of whether USCIS properly denied the petition based on arrests occurring in the three years prior to the denial.

26 ³Plaintiff completed his term of confinement on or about July 10, 2010, and was immediately 27 taken into custody by the San Diego County Sheriff’s Department pursuant to a warrant. (Notice of Suppl. Facts, Ex. B.) The Superior Court set his bail at $3 million. (Mot. for Summ. J., Ex. H.) 28 Plaintiff is currently incarcerated at the Vista Detention Facility, awaiting trial on twenty separate felony counts, including identity theft. (Mot. for Summ. J., Ex. G.)

1 to imprisonment and probation. Therefore, Plaintiff's conviction for grand theft precludes a 2 finding by this Court of good moral character.

3 Defendants further argue that the relief Plaintiff seeks is also foreclosed by his October 27, 4 2009 guilty plea to felony burglary under California Penal Code § 459.⁴ Although a burglary 5 conviction is not categorically a crime involving moral turpitude, the Court may look to the 6 documents that are a part of the record of conviction, including a signed guilty plea, to determine 7 whether Plaintiff pled guilty to elements that constitute a crime involving moral turpitude.

8 Cuevas-Gaspar v. Gonzales, 430 F.3d 1013, 1019-20 (9th Cir. 2005). The Ninth Circuit has held 9 that theft is a crime involving moral turpitude. Id. at 1020. Here, it is undisputed that Plaintiff 10 pled guilty to felony burglary less than a month before his application was denied. (Mot. for 11 Summ. J., Exs. D, E.) At Plaintiff's Change of Plea hearing, Plaintiff admitted understanding he 12 was pleading guilty to a "theft crime," and that he entered into a building "with the specific intent 13 to commit a theft." (Mot. for Summ. J., Ex. D, at 6:4-9,17-20.) In his signed guilty plea, he also 14 admitted to entering the store with "intent to steal." (Mot. for Summ. J., Ex. E.)

15 Plaintiff argues he has not yet been sentenced in that case, and there is no conviction for 16 immigration purposes until there is a sentencing. However, as Defendants point out, the statutory 17 bar to naturalization does not require a conviction and imposition of a sentence. Section 18 1182(a)(A) provides "any alien convicted of, or who admits having committed, or who admits 19 committing acts which constitute the essential elements of . . . a crime involving moral turpitude . .
20 . is inadmissible." 8 U.S.C. § 1182(a)(2)(A)(i)(I). It is undisputed that Plaintiff has admitted in his 21 guilty plea that he committed acts which constitute a crime involving moral turpitude - burglary 22 with intent to commit a theft. Therefore, Plaintiff's admission precludes a finding by this Court of 23 good moral character.

24 Finally, the Court finds Plaintiff is currently ineligible to naturalize because in May 2010 25

27 ⁴As Plaintiff points out, if he is acquitted on all charges in another pending criminal case, the 28 case will be reduced to a misdemeanor. (Mot. for Summ. J., Ex. D.) However, whether the conviction is for a felony or misdemeanor has no impact on this Court's conclusion.

1 he was sentenced to three years probation. (Mot. for Summ. J., Ex. B.) Pursuant to 8 C.F.R. § 2 316.10(c)(1), “[a]n application will not be approved until after the probation, parole, or suspended 3 sentence has been completed.” 8 C.F.R. § 316.10(c)(1).

4 The undisputed facts demonstrate Plaintiff cannot meet his burden of demonstrating good 5 moral character during the statutory period, and therefore the Court cannot grant the relief Plaintiff 6 seeks. Because no genuine issue of material fact exists as to this issue, summary judgment is 7 appropriate.⁵

8 CONCLUSION
